

a PIEDI cure

Published on Wednesday 8th July 2009

When the weather's warm, we like nothing more than modelling newly pedi'd feet in a pair of chic sandals.

At a time when savvy shopping is more essential than ever, and considering that the British summer lasts all of five minutes, splashing our cash on a three hundred pound pair of Choos just doesn't sound all that sensible...

Instead, we'll be flying the recessionista flag with a PIEDI, who have just launched a range of super stylish leather sandals at seriously sensible prices (from just £22).

For pavement pounding, enter the simple and ever-classic Amy T-bar thong (white looks dazzling against a tan, but frankly, at that price, why not stock up on all colours?).

Every girl needs a go-with-everything sandal in tan, and a PIEDI's Dalia toe-post doesn't disappoint, or for something a little more intricate, slip those toes into the Olivia T-bar in contrasting ivory and olive.

And with all the money you'll save, there's no excuse not to treat those toes to a well-deserved pedi.

Get 15% OFF when you enter  at checkout.

Visit www.apiedi.co.uk

